

By Lieut.-Colonel Grigori A. Tokaev
A highly-placed Soviet officer who fled to the West to fight for Freedom. He carried out secret tasks for the Politburo.

At the end of the war rocket science in Germany was ahead of its Anglo-American competitors. In jet propulsion Germany was leading the world up till 1944.

The collapse of the German armies was the signal for a race among the Allies for the secret blueprints, formulas and technical and other inventions.

The Soviet Union came off second best for two reasons. First, the leading German inventors and scientists took refuge in the West.

Second, the Soviet rulers could not admit, without irreparable loss of face, that they had fallen behind the West in any way.

I, despite this initial disadvantage, the Soviet Union has profited enormously from access to German scientists.

Today many thousands of German scientists, physicists, mathematicians, technicians and engineers, engineers, and skilled industrial workmen are working in the Soviet Union on production of German-type weapons.

In my opinion, this inevitable and profitable form of German reparation will prove of far greater value to Soviet power than all the German reparations.

Everything movable in the Soviet Union was labelled "war booty," even ladies underwear.

My job was to comb out German industry and scientific establishments for information on everything relating to jet propulsion, rockets, aircraft construction, and atomic power.

Although I was often an independent agent on special missions for the Politburo, Soviet General Staff, and the Soviet Air Staff at the last stage of my stay in Germany I worked together with Colonel Gervoy and Major-General Vasil Stalain, the son of the dictator.

Sergey is Deputy Minister of the Interior (MVD). He is about 47 or 48, slim, and may be described as a good looking, like a much liked boy in the Kremlin "ladies" and is one of Stalin's favorites.

Vasil Stalain is a painfully thin young man, who does not resemble his father in the least.

His face, shoulders, arms and hands appeared somewhat like a patient in the last stages of tuberculosis.

Search Was Feverish
When the war ended the first and most feverish search was of course, for plants and scientists working on atomic power.

Thanks to information supplied by Soviet Intelligence Services, the Soviet forces entered Germany forearmed with the knowledge about Germany heavy armaments plants and the names of the leading German physicists concentrating on atomic research.

In spite of the fact that the Soviet Union was combing out the wreckage of the Reich, the search yielded the Politburo practically nothing.

Many German atomic scientists, suspecting their fate under Soviet occupation, had fled to the British or American zones.

I specialized in the technical aspects of jet rockets and aircraft. From the outset of the Occupation, there were three Soviet headquarters in Germany.

(1) The SNA (Soviet Military Administration) HQ at Berlin-Karlshorst, which was known to everybody.

(2) The HQ of the Soviet Armed Forces Occupation Group in Germany, which was known to everybody.

(3) The HQ of the Rear of the Soviet Army Group, at Potsdam.

He may be described as a physically incomplete man, with dull reddish hair and an unpleasant look in his eyes.

A SNA, carried by pimples and boils, roared black teeth, and the "terribly high-pitched voice of a congested and spoiled child."

In spite of the fact that the "court" tailors which is lavished upon him, his uniform fit him about as well as it could.

He drinks and smokes to excess. At the beginning of the war he was a star of the Soviet Air Force, where he was a squadron leader and a Kremlins favorite.

As he went on to be successively promoted to Major General, Division, and finally, Air Corps of the 12th Air Army based on Germany, although he is most unsuited for that post.

Most of his air school friends are still lieutenants, whilst V. Stalain is a major general.

In spite of this, his old comrades have not changed their opinion of him, and still consider him as one of the dullest ex-pulps of the air force.

Vasil Stalain left Germany for Moscow in 1947, and I do not know what office he holds now.

The fact that such a nobody was so highly regarded in the Soviet Union, is a fact that is not to be explained by the fact that he was a member of the Politburo.

He is a member of the Politburo, and his name is mentioned in the Soviet press as one of the leading members of the Politburo.

He is a member of the Politburo, and his name is mentioned in the Soviet press as one of the leading members of the Politburo.

Twenty-four representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and the service clubs have approached Mayor Ainlay with the most vigorous idea ever conceived for placing Edmonton on the map of the world.

This idea is the staging of an annual air show in this city in conjunction with the Exhibition—an air show of international and world scope.

Mayor Ainlay received the idea coldly with the argument that an air show at the same time as the Exhibition would minimize race betting receipts.

It is impossible to accept that decision as final because the kind of an air show projected would draw tens of thousands of people to Edmonton and double the Exhibition revenues.

And the publicity potentialities in such a show are infinite.

The thing to understand is that this contemplated air show is unlike any other air show on earth.

It will be a parade of the world's aircraft and the world's flying skill.

It will attract exhibits and competitors from every country on earth.

A round-the-world air race could be a feature of it.

And accredited representatives from every British dominion and from every friendly country will seize upon the occasion to fly to Edmonton to promote and publicize their national wares.

Airplane manufacturers from every country will display their products in connection with the Exhibition.

This is Edmonton's greatest chance for planetary publicity.

And the lucklessness of the mayor who, as trustee for the city, must naturally proceed cautiously, cannot be permitted to interfere with it.

There are no great air shows like the proposed one being held in the world at this time.

And Edmonton is obviously and emphatically the place for the staging of one.

For this city is the natural crossroads of world air travel.

It is on the world route to Australia.

Russian dignitaries passed through Edmonton on the way to San Francisco.

Wendell Wilkie came through Edmonton on his notable trip around the globe.

Edmonton is one of the greatest world air centres.

And an air show, on colossal and global proportions, would fix that fact in the mind of every civilized man.

This is Edmonton's great opportunity to build up an annual publicity asset that would make Calgary's excellent stadium a mere local celebration.

Whose is the next move?

Producers Claim
Increase Needed

Increase from $4.25 to $5 per 100 pounds in the price for fluid milk paid producers in the Edmonton milk-shed is requested by the Alberta Milk and Inspected Cream Producers' Association.

Request was made to the Board of Public Utilities Commissioners Friday by R. H. M. Bailey, general manager of the Producers' Association, in the course of an enquiry into the price of fluid milk, processing and distribution costs.

If producers' request is granted on the basis of the current milk price will jump from 17 to 19 cents a quart.

G. M. Blackstock, K.C., chairman of the utilities commission, intimated that evidence so far given at the hearing did not support the price increase requested by the producers.

More Evidence
Mr. Bailey indicated there was considerable further evidence to be presented in support of the association's claim for the increase.

Determining in the application will be the production cost survey of farmers operating in the milk-shed who will submit their accounts. This evidence will be submitted to the board when the case is resumed here on February 18.

Several farmers testified Friday they would have to cease shipping operations if the price increase was not granted.

Increased labor costs, herd losses through mastitis and general upsurge in cost of commodities and repair costs were given as factors in support of the proposed price increase.

Temperature
On Way Up

Midwest weekend in several weeks was predicted for Edmonton region today.

The weatherman says the mercury will climb to 30 above today and temperatures will remain high on Sunday.

Warm air started moving into Alberta from the Yukon Friday, when the mercury began to climb and during the night it rose steadily.

The milder weather is being accompanied by winds of 15 miles per hour which will blow this afternoon.

Temperatures in Saskatchewan were still below zero this morning, but the wind is expected to reach there sometime today.

In Lethbridge area, the milder weather was accompanied by winds averaging 15 mph, peak just this morning was 40 mph.

Edmonton forecast valid until midnight Sunday:

Today today and Sunday; snow this evening; winds west 15 today, light Sunday; not quite so mild; tonight and high tomorrow, 8 and 20.

$1,350,000 Building
Program to Start

Tenders will be called shortly for two buildings in Edmonton with a total estimated cost of over $1,350,000.

They are the provincial Public Health building, the location of which has not yet been revealed, and a new addition to the Alberta College at 1041 101 St.

The former is expected to cost upwards of $1,000,000 alone, while the latter is estimated at $350,000.

Tenders for the first unit of the Health building will be called within the next few weeks. It will be two stories and basement. Provision will be made in this structure for housing of animals required in experiments.

Vancouver Gas Line
Would Use New Fields

CALGARY, Jan. 28.—A proposal to pipe Alberta natural gas to the west coast without utilizing any reserves which have been developed at present has been made to the Dining Natural Gas Commission in Calgary.

The proposal was made by Mr. McMahon, Calgary oil man who represented several Canadian and American companies at the hearing.

ON TO SEATTLE
The plan calls for an all-Canadian pipeline from Alberta to Vancouver and on to Seattle and Portland, Mr. McMahon explained.

Gas for the project would not disturb in any way the existing gas picture in Alberta since it would utilize only new fields found in the future, Mr. McMahon declared.

He said all presently known gas fields in Alberta would be left alone.

19 Is Still Too Young For People to Marry

"A state which cannot keep its homes together cannot keep itself together," Very Reverend A. M. Trendell, said at a series of lectures of the marriage counselling clinic.

Stolen Auto Not Missing Then Missing Auto Stolen

It's all so confusing! The rightful owner has now recovered a stolen automobile which was located by police before it was reported stolen, but later reported missing, though it really wasn't.

Starting at the beginning, it happened this way:

Sometime Tuesday night or Wednesday morning a two-door grey 1946 coupe was stolen from the garage of S. W. Tallock, manager of Monarch Service Garage, 10971 101 street.

At 1:15 a.m. Wednesday a police powder car noticed a car in Borden Park, partly hidden by bushes. Investigating, they found new license plates in an envelope on the seat.

Enquiries at headquarters indicated no report that a car with this license was stolen. As foot-patrol led from the car towards dwelling houses, police left the car where it was for further investigation.

When they reported for work next evening, however, they found the car had since been reported stolen. They immediately located Borden Park but the car had disappeared.

It transpired that police day staff had called Mr. Tallock, who went to Borden Park, found the car, and drove it away.

SACRIFICED TO EXPANDING Edmonton is friendly book shop that operates on policy of simplicity almost extinct in the hard-and-fast commercial world of today. Dickens-Style Book Shop Soon Falling to Wreckers

By Eunice Hoffman

Had Dickens lived in Edmonton in the years between 1930 and 1949, he might have written about the quaint little book shop, flavored with age and book-love, that caters to students and readers at 9045 Jasper avenue.

The Dickens atmosphere is all about it. A small store heats the shop. Flocks come in to browse, or talk, or read. As in all good book shops, there is no hurry, no sense of a need to buy.

Books are everywhere, not in the neat systematic planning of a city library, but everywhere on chairs, on shelves that sag with their weight, piled high to the ceiling.

The good odor of books and leather is heavy in the air.

FOUNDED BY LONDONER

The Oxford and Cambridge Book Exchange was founded in 1930 by Fred J. Rymer, for many years a columnist and well-known publisher in London, England.

He began his venture, not with the idea of merely selling books, but rather the establishment of a centre for book-lovers to meet casually, to discuss favorite topics or, if they wished, just visit.

Many in Edmonton will recall pleasant chats on the world of books and the fourth estate with the founder of the Exchange.

He was succeeded by his son, Alfred, who conducted the business until the Second World War, when he went overseas with the artillery. On returning he settled at the west coast. The tradition, however, was carried on by Alfred's brother, J. E. Rymer, who with his wife has been friends all over Canada, the States and the British Isles in the course of conducting the Book Exchange.

TREASURE TROVE

Old and treasured volumes are legion in the stores of books at the little shop, but the oldest is a 1378 Latin publication on theology, bound in genuine parchment, published in the German duchy of Wurttemberg.

By the side of this is a first edition of a Cree dictionary in French grammar by Father LeCombe, who figured so prominently and was held in so much affection in early Alberta history.

Mr. Rymer also has the first American edition, 1870, of McKenney's Voyages. The pages are yellowed and tattered but the boards are original, and the single volume is worth at least $2500.

Growing in value with time, too, is Mrs. Keble's Great Barrier Reef of Australia, in half-bound morocco leather. The molds, books and stock from which it was printed were burned in the Blitz of 1940, so there will be no further editions of this beautiful and painstaking work. Original value was $25.

Most impressive of the old books, possibly, is a stern vindication of the liberty of the press, written in 1812 by Charles Bland.

NO HURRY HERE

The O and C Book Exchange is one of the few business places untouched by the hurry and commercialism of a modern age. There are no time charges for keeping a book more than two weeks. A borrower may keep a book until he finishes it, whenever that may be. Mr. Rymer has found that people do not take advantage of the privilege.

"People are honest" and he smiled at the gratifying assurance. Unfortunately, the days of the picturesque little book shop are numbered. Extension of the Macdonald hotel will mean removal of the block in which it is situated, and Mr. and Mrs. Rymer have not been able to find new premises. Disappearance of the favorite landmark is regarded as a personal loss by the many friends of the Oxford and Cambridge Book Exchange.

B.C.'s Selfish Stand

Some means must be found to bridge British Columbia from its obdurate and selfish position that the Trans-Canada Highway must go through the sterile southern route and not the fertile northern route.

If British Columbia does not retreat from this intolerably greedy stand, the Highway may never be built at all.

Ottawa has made it clear that the federal government will have no part in building the Highway unless the three western provinces can agree on the course it is to follow.

Obviously Alberta can never countenance the southerly route for the simple reason that this route would be of minimum use to Alberta people and of minimum attraction to tourists.

Alberta's stand is taken on logic and common sense.

The Yellowhead route, unlike the southerly route, can be kept open without much trouble, except for a few miles at Blue River, for 12 months in the year.

It passes through five provincial and four national parks.

It connects with the Alaska Highway. It connects with the great airfields that will serve world air travel.

And it passes through the Edmonton oil fields which are in themselves a tremendous tourist attraction for every person on the North American continent.

Thus, the Yellowhead route not only serves a greater number of Canadians than any other route but offers a lift to the entire tourist business of Canada.

On the other hand, the southerly route favored by British Columbia confers no benefit upon anyone but Calgary and Vancouver.

Yet Vancouver insists upon this route because its lack of attractions would induce more visitors to spend a greater time in the coast city.

It is difficult to understand how British Columbia can attempt to justify this entirely selfish and self-interested contention.

And if British Columbia persists in this position, the entire Highway project will be jeopardized.

For certainly the tourist business of all Alberta and, for that matter, of Saskatchewan and even points farther east, cannot be sacrificed to the narrow demands of Vancouver.

Surely there must be enough reasonable give-and-take in the British Columbian make-up to find a way out of this unhappy deadlock.

Useful Links Across Canada

The annual banquet of the Maritime Provinces Association in Edmonton on February 1 calls attention, as it should, to those many organizational links, like this one, that bind the ends and the middle of Canada more closely together and profitably promote the unification of the country.

The Maritime Provinces Association is an organization devoted to deepening the understanding between the Maritimes and the West.

This particular annual meeting, next Tuesday, will consist partly of a study of Newfoundland which, in many respects, will come into federation with Canada with many of the problems that beset the Maritime provinces.

These endeavors are useful and wholesome and reflect credit on those who participate in them.

The warp and woof of the Canadian fabric are being woven together in a multiplicity of ways.

Evil As a Positive Force

Those familiar with the Gospel of St. Matthew will recall how Jesus, after performing the miracle of stilling the storm, caused two men possessed of devils and He caused the devils to leave the men and pass into a herd of swine.

This account raises the whole question of the nature of evil, a problem that has puzzled theologians and ecclesiastical philosophers for 2,000 years.

Is evil a positive thing or is it merely the absence of good?

Is there a personified entity directing evil as an active force or is evil only a condition that prevails when the force of good is not in control?

We realize that since man's fall through temptation, man has a tendency towards sin, which tendency is the "original sin" so often mentioned by religious teachers.

But is this original sin an organized rebellion against God directed by some outside force inimical to God?

The Church has already anathematized as a heresy the belief in a constant war between light and darkness in which the two are equally balanced.

And yet, there is considerable evidence to show that while God is supreme and omnipotent, evil is still a positive force striving to disorganize the order of His kingdom.

This tendency towards spiritual disorder, which is sin, is seen in every living thing and even in some inanimate things.

Even metals show a mysterious disposition, sometimes, to revolt against the physical laws that govern their behavior.

Thus, the evidence that points out the existence of positive evil is strengthened by the appearance of a certain order in disorder.

Intelligent intent and purpose behind evil.

Temptation, then, is a real and positive thing. Sin is an aggressive act or acts and not merely a human resistance to good.

Thus does experience seem to bear out the account in St. Matthew where the evil in the two men who came out of tombs was pictured as a personified force that could be translated, by divine power, from one body to another.

ODDS AND ENDS

These Are the Issues That Divide Humanity

Dr. Norman MacKenzie, president of the University of British Columbia, says that the most serious problem in education is reaching people to live together in harmony and with a greater understanding of human relationships.

It is not only the greatest problem in education, it is probably the greatest problem in life.

For the divisions that constitute the widest and deepest breaches between human beings are not the divisions of race or creed or color but the divisions based on habits of mind and heart.

There is the materialistic approach to life and there is the spiritual approach to life.

The difference between these two is infinitely greater than any difference between rationalism and irrationalism. It is even greater than fundamental differences between the various creeds because that does not predicate a spiritual approach to religion.

This breach between the spiritualized and the materialized is much more serious than any breach between nations because both spiritualized and materialized are units of the same society.

Thus, the social structure is split wide open by this difference of approach.

It is a wide open in Canada. It is a wide open in the United States.

Cohesive Factor

It would be fallacious to say that civilization depends upon the cohesive factor of spirituality.

TODAY'S MESSAGE

Faith in Prayer

Some time ago a clergyman reported that when his congregation gathered to pray for rain only one member brought his umbrella. Newspapers cited the incident to give their readers a chuckle.

It would have been better to show a more sober interest in the man who took his umbrella to church. Was he merely chuckling naively, a person to laugh at? Or was he a man who took prayer seriously? Perhaps he carried his umbrella, not because he expected God to send a deluge of rain immediately, but as a token of his belief that God heeds all prayers, big or little.

If we find the man with the umbrella an object for fun-making, we should just as logically sneer at the mother who goes on her knees because her child has been taken suddenly ill. Or ridicule the man who comes into church to pray for a job, for relief from illness, or any other boon.

Many people seem to think it is all right to offer prayers for such collective blessings as world peace or the conversion of the heathen. Certainly it is noble to pray to God for the good of millions. It is also an excellent thing to ask for personal blessings. There is no better proof of a man's belief in one of the cardinal Christian tenets—that God has a personal interest in each of us and will not turn a deaf ear to our entreaties. Undoubtedly it is much better to pray for spiritual gifts—increased of faith, renewed hope, greater charity of mind and heart. Indeed, God expects us to ask him unceasingly for these graces. But he is also glad when we ask Him for material favors.

Whether or not God grants our temporal petitions is not vitally important. Many of the favors we ask may not be for our ultimate good. But if we ask God to do what we pray—for even the littlest boon—is pleasing to the Creator. It shows that we have trust in Him, and disposes Him all the more readily to come to our aid in the days when we must cry out in real and great need.

COME TO CHURCH THIS SUNDAY

Ministry Candidates Show Good Increase

A cheerful light was cast at Toronto on the old problem of shortage of ministers in the United Church of Canada, Toronto, which W. B. C. is chair, the board of colleges and secondary schools announced a new high in the number of candidates studying for the ministry in United Church colleges.

Dr. Young said that 488 candidates are now studying for the United Church ministry, compared to 424 in 1947 and 393 in 1946. Dr. Young said that the process of education, toward the ministry, is showing a marked increase in the number of candidates for the ministry is now bearing fruit. Significant signs are being taken by church leaders across Canada to help meet the situation, which by no means solved yet. Dr. Young said he described the recent meeting of 250 young men and women in Winnipeg who had expressed an interest in the possibility of becoming ministers of the United Church of Canada. Very Rev. Dr. George Dudgeon, of Toronto, was flown to Winnipeg from Toronto to address the group.

Seed Plant Plans Receive Setback

WETASKIWIN, Jan. 29.—Extremely cold weather and, in some cases drifting snow, has hindered considerably the work of the committee engaged in organizing the Wetaskiwin Seed Cleaning Association.

TRUCKER DIES ON HIGHWAY

WESTLOCK, Jan. 29.—Alvin Fortier, 64, of Vimy, died suddenly on the highway at the north of Flatbush last Tuesday night while inspecting a tire on his truck. He was driving it to his home at the time.

An old time resident of the district, coming here in 1910, Mr. Fortier was for some time engaged in farming. Later he had been trucking. His nephew, Wilfred Provincial, was with him when he passed away.

H. Bishop Plans New Building For Westlock

WESTLOCK, Jan. 29.—H. Bishop plans to build a new church for construction of a fully modern building to take the place of the block almost destroyed in the recent fire here and which was used as a pool hall. Demolition of the remains of the structure will commence shortly.

Peir's hardware shop, L. Teller's law office and Mr. Haystack have secured temporary quarters, as a precautionary measure some furnishings had been removed from Dr. Kieckhafer's building.

Firefighters were handicapped by a broken pump for a time. Buckle, hose lines from the trucks of survey crews of all companies in town and hose running from the town hydrants, were used on the fire in the 20 degrees below zero.

Fraser and that Tank was somewhere in the British zone.

My answer had put Servo in a difficult position, from which he tried to extricate himself by putting the blame on others.

After I had finished my report, Stalin called Sokolovskiy or a direct line and advised him that a Government commission would be arriving in Berlin that very day, and that it was to be given every facility for carrying out the tasks which had been allotted to it.

He also said that the SNA was to pay particular attention to air matters from then on.

Just before the meeting broke up, Stalin was still walking up and down the length of the table, frowning his lips.

Not addressing anyone in particular and emphasizing his words with his right hand, he spoke his thoughts aloud as follows:

We need aircraft of the Sanger type, and if this project can be realized in practice, we must do it.

"If we have such aircraft, it will be easier to talk in Truman. We may be able to quieten him down."

The presentations were made by Rev. W. Bruce Macdonald, W. Weber was named president of the Women's Auxiliary for the ensuing year.

GOVERNMENT STARTS ON CAMROSE BRIDGE

CAMROSE, Jan. 29.—Provincial government's highway bridge gang arrived in Camrose recently and they will start the work of setting the pile underpinning across the Calgary Power waterworks lake, in order to continue the new highway through town without the re-routing which is now necessary to keep on the highway.

The crew is under engineer Louis Grimble and is setting up camp just west of the lake. The Camrose town council has already passed the necessary by-laws to expropriate the small amount of highway territory required and the new route will be straight east and west, connecting up the present highway.

The final objective, it is hoped, will be reached within the next few weeks. Assistance of the Wetaskiwin Board of Trade will probably be sought in obtaining a suitable site and the experience of the builders of the Camrose plant will be available to the Wetaskiwin Association. A committee will also be set up to oversee the work.

The committee in charge of the Camrose plant will also be in the Wetaskiwin district. A committee will also be set up to oversee the work.

Rocky to Hold Fair This Year

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, Jan. 29.—The Agricultural Society held its annual meeting on Monday. Officers for 1949 are: President, George Bolet, first vice-president, Frank Crutchfield, second vice-president, Victor Kobalski, director, W. Ellensburgh, Levi Smith, S. Maxwell, George Winda, Martin Boudard, Mrs. Anderson and Paul Simpson.

Last year was not very successful for four events, planned during the spring and early summer, were cancelled, meaning a loss each time to the Society. But the members plan to go ahead and try and arrange a fair this summer. Many successful fairs have been held here but the society fell on evil days in the depression and the last fair was in 1932.

Majority of Germans Avoided Russians himself, but no trace of her was ever found.

Only 66 copies of the "Sanger project" were ever printed; they were distributed to people like Goering, Milch, Heisenbach, Prandtl, Tank, von Braun, etc.

Some took, some were found in the Soviet zone.

In my opinion the realization of Sanger's idea is possible in principle, but it is also my considered opinion that the USSR does not possess the means to realize it at present.

As the importance of such find became more apparent, the Politburo issued instructions for the maximum number of German experts to be rounded up.

The USSR was without practical experience in these technical fields and hoped to make a long jump ahead with the help of German expertise.

But by then it was almost too late. German scientists, whom the MVD-MGB had overlooked during the first round-up in the summer of 1945, had meanwhile fled to the West or had lost themselves as simple citizens among the German population.

Late in 1945, the MVD and MGB changed their tactics. Hoping to entice German rocket and atomic specialists into voluntary collaboration, they began to offer them money.

He picked up the book and looked at it, asked, "Guarantee?" and you familiar with this work."

I answered, "Yes, Comrade Stalin."

"What will please explain to me what it is all about?"

My report on the "Sanger project" lasted for about 40 minutes. Throughout my report, Stalin leaned up and down the length of the table as if lost in thought.

From time to time he came close to me and, looking me straight in the eye, asked a question.

Now until I happened to mention, in answer to a question of one of the people present, that many of the most essential German scientists had escaped to the West, did Stalin emerge from his reverie.

I mentioned a number of names, including those of Professor Tank and Dr. Sanger.

All this time Servo was standing behind me.

With every name I mentioned, he would nod his head slightly. "And where are Sanger and Tank now?" he asked.

I told that I did not know for certain, but that there were reasons to believe that Sanger was in the West.

At this time Servo was standing behind me.

With every name I mentioned, he would nod his head slightly. "And where are Sanger and Tank now?" he asked.

Whole Group Killed

The greater part of German aeronautical rocket and jet propulsion experts, headed by Professor von Braun, who fell into Soviet hands are working in groups in various parts of the USSR.

Professor von Braun, with a group of German experts, is working at the Central Aerodynamic Institute (TsAGI) in Moscow and, as far as I know, he is not particularly pleased with his lot.

A group of German experts was killed at the MVD-MGB Airfield at Nykovo, near Moscow.

In April 1945, I was summoned to Moscow for important conferences at the Kremlin. The following were present at one of the first:

MALENKOV—Member of the Politburo, Secretary to the Central Committee (V.P.R.), Deputy Chairman of the Council of Ministers USSR.

VOZNESSENSKI—Member of the Politburo, Deputy Chairman of the Council of Ministers USSR.

$375,177 Is Demanded From Shareholders

CALGARY, Jan. 29.—(CP)—Claims totalling $375,177 were filed against 210 shareholders of the defunct Home Assurance Company of Canada in supreme court chambers Thursday. The claims are for the balance owing on the stock and were laid on application of A. G. Burton of Calgary.

The shareholders of the company are scattered all over western Canada and some reside in the United States. The company was ordered into liquidation by the Alberta government and Mr. Burton appointed liquidator to Burton. Earlier this week he applied to the court for an order directing that security deposits amounting to $325,000 be turned over to him. The deposits now are held by the provincial treasurers of Alberta and Quebec. He also asked for instructions on the disbursement of the deposits. Court reserved decision on the deposits.

Court was told that each of the shareholders will be given an opportunity to raise a defence against the individual claims. It is expected the proceedings will continue for some weeks.

CLAIM MISUNDERSTANDING
Five shareholders, all from Alberta, told the court there had been misunderstanding when they purchased the shares back in 1924. The shares had a par value of $100 and each of the five men said they

Prisoner Too Drunk To Go Back to Cell

VICTORIA, Jan. 29.—(CP)—Non-aid Parsons yesterday appealed conviction and subsequent two-year sentence for jail-breaking on the grounds that he got drunk in his cell, walked out the door and had paid $10 for each share on the understanding "that was all I would have to pay."

Court ruled that after hearing all evidence and argument, it would decide on the list of contributors and the amount each had to pay. Parsons and two others were convicted by Magistrate L. H. Thibney at Whitehorse, Dec. 16. They all denied the charge and are quitted.

ed in Magistrate Thibney's report as saying:
"We were drinking in a cell. Three or four bottles of wine. We went out the door several times and got more liquor. There was no intention to escape jail. We were drunk and got out and neglected to return."

The report didn't say how the prisoners came to be drinking. However, Parsons is still confined to the RCMP guard room at Whitehorse, Y.T., from which he is accused of escaping and the appeal court here postponed his case until he is brought down from the northern post.

Differential Removal Plea Will Be Heard

OTTAWA, Jan. 29.—(CP)—The Board of Transport Commissioners yesterday took an 11-day adjournment in its hearings on a railway application for higher freight rates after receiving evidence since Jan. 11.

The recess was ordered to permit the board next week to hear argument in British Columbia's application for removal of the mountain differential rate on some freight.

Waterloo Industries Get New Distribution Agency

Waterloo Industries Limited, Kingsway branch, have been appointed northern Alberta distributors for Trailmobile of Canada Limited.

The complete line of Trailmobile van bodies, semi-trailer vans and chassis, low-boy, high-boy units, tank trailers, lumber trailers and other trailer units will be made available at their 101 street and Kingsway location.

COMPLETE SERVICE TOO

In addition, the firm offers complete service on all mechanical requirements and will carry a full line of parts and accessories.

"We are fully equipped and capable of servicing all Trailmobile units," said Don Downing, sales representative.

"Trailmobile is blasing a new trail to low-cost trailer transportation, and the new Canadian-built units are stronger, lighter, smarter and more durable," said Downing. The sales representative said the new Trailmobile Trailblazer is an investment in economical transport. "For the first time in history the public is offered a trailer which combines the strength of steel and light weight aluminum for greater payloads and easier pulling."

MANY IMPROVEMENTS

In pointing out the many new advantages of Trailmobile, Downing said that the new tank trailer has 21 specific improvements. Excess weight has been eliminated, the extra outside supporting structures are now substituted by special internal reinforcements. Load-stresses and road-shock cannot concentrate, instead, they are now let into the tank properly, and then dispersed.

Country wide, Trailmobile's unique under carriage, with either single or tandem axles, has created remarkable records for economy. It's the easiest pulling under-carriage in the industry," he said.

He claims that Trailmobile tandem action has been simplified and three old tandem troubles have been eliminated.

With 12 parts cut to two, wear, maintenance and attention are negligible. The new rocking arm keeps loads constantly distributed evenly and no undue scuffing of tires is done. And all parts of the new Trailmobile are completely changeable and standard everywhere. There is no waiting for special parts," he said.

ALL ACCESSORIES

Downing further added that the Kingsway branch of Waterloo Industries carries a full stock of all parts and accessories and that the Trailmobile units may be fitted to any make of truck.

"Any load is carried easier by Trailmobile," he said and different units to transport coal, furniture, gasoline, freight, air cargo, machinery, milk, groceries, etc., would be available.

"Edmonton is stepping into the big business field with its oil development and rapid growth of north land trade, thus the need for Trailmobile units is a necessity, and our company, realizing this, has moved into the field. We are able to supply trailers capable of carrying loads between 10 and 12 tons, he concluded.

Company Boasts Of Having Parts For All Jobs

Regardless of what trouble you encounter with your car or truck, Waterloo Motors Limited, Kingsway branch, is fully equipped to locate and fix the difficulty.

This is the open boast of the management and staff of the firm. "We have in stock or access to any part or accessories for any car or truck on the market today," says Parts Manager Walt Dober. Dober, who is well known in the local automotive field, was recently appointed to his new post. He came to Edmonton by way of Ponoka, where he was also engaged in the car industry and has been a resident of the city for the past eight years.

He is said to be one of the best

Coffee Bar Is Different

Employees of Waterloo Motors Limited and Waterloo Industries Limited, Kingsway branches, operate their own coffee and snack bar.

In cosy and modernly-equipped lounge room, coffee, sandwiches or cookies are served to employees three times daily.

The employees, 30 in number, contribute $1 each per month for the maintenance of their coffee bar. This is sufficient to purchase their refreshments and keep the premises in tip top shape.

It's coffee time once during the morning and once in the afternoon, but during the noon hour, many of the employees bring their lunches and make use of the snack bar facilities.

"We find that it saves time and its convenient location is most popular with employees," said George Robinson, manager of the Kingsway branch of Waterloo Motors Limited.

Community Meet

Regular monthly meeting of the Parkland Community League will be held Tuesday, Feb. 1, at 8:30 P.M. in Rupert Street Church.

'Summer Holiday' Color Musical

Songs Integrated As Part Of Dialogue In Strand Film

Utilizing a striking and revolutionary technique in its handling of tunes and lyrics, the technicolor musical "Summer Holiday" brings a wealth of talent to the screen of the Strand theatre, commencing Monday.

Here is a picture which scores the use of its song hits as spot numbers. Instead, the various songs are skillfully integrated as part of the dialog itself.

CLASSIC PLAY
The picture is based on Eugene O'Neill's now almost classic play, "Ah, Wilderness!" which described in nostalgic terms the pleasures and misadventures of small-town life in America of the early 1900's. The case of young Richard Miller who tries to carry the entire world on his shoulders is particularly portrayed.

Mickey Rooney is Richard Miller, burlesque to preach the "evil" of capitalism in his impassioned high school valedictorian speech.

Gloria De Haven plays the part of eager, but shy Marie.

BOTH SUPERB
Rooney and Miss De Haven are superb in the roles of the adolescent pair who find ecstasy in the poetry of Omar Khayyam.

Walter Huston and Frank Morgan are expertly cast in the respective roles of Richard's grandfather and the mischievous Uncle Sid.

Bulch Jenkins is responsible for many of the picture's laughs as the family's youngest offspring.

Mariya Mann's a stand-out part as Belle and Astrid Moon, head is effective as the long-suffering Cousin Lily.

Companion feature on the program is "Dynamite," starring Wm. Garson and Virginia Welles.

There are about 400 different kinds of locomotives in use in Britain. Under national plan for standardizing equipment there are to be cut down to 12 models.

Prince Philip Quickly Becoming a London Power

LONDON, Jan. 29.—(CP)—Husband of tomorrow's queen, father of a future king, the young and personable Duke of Edinburgh may be the most-talked-of man in Britain this year.

Now the King is unwell, his duties have almost doubled. Most of His Majesty's outdoor duties have already devolved on Prince Philip and in discharging them he has won general esteem. The Duke has been acclaimed everywhere as a worthy representative of Britain's Royal Family; yet it is less than two years since a London newspaper took a public opinion poll on his eligibility as Princess Elizabeth's husband. Thirty-two per cent of those polled decided against him.

ON TRIAL
In a sense, the Duke was on trial during the first year of his marriage. To all ceremonies he brought the dignity that comes from prince born—only with a touch of experience.

In recent months, Philip has been widely acclaimed as a public speaker. He uses no notes, is never at a loss for a phrase, reveals considerable wit and smiles as he talks.

The Duke is also becoming accepted as a leader of men, his fashion styles in Britain. His choice of clothes is watched by West End tailors.

Offstage, he is often called a "man debaucher." Once at a public function he surprised a newspaper photographer by saying: "Congratulations! You are the only one who can take a photograph standing up straight."

MORE AND MORE
But there is authority as well as fun in the glint of his eye, and he will be called on to exercise further as time goes on. In the year ahead he will have little time for his former pleasures—cricket, motor, driving and swimming—and will have to content with his squash court, an infrequent dash across the Solent in his yacht Blue-bottle, and an occasional round on the tiny golf course in the grounds of Windham Moor, Surrey, his country home.

That he is able to keep his head in the midst of state obligations is suggested by the fact that he was "letting off steam" in the private squash court at Buckingham Palace at the moment young Prince Charles was born.

Seamen Won't Take Wage Cut
HALIFAX, Jan. 28.—(CP)—Gus Griffin, Port Agent here of the Canadian Seamen's Union (TLCU), said last night the union will strike before it will accept any wage reduction.

His statement followed a union meeting which adopted a resolution urging that "all Canadian seamen mobilize immediately to take whatever action may be necessary to protect our living standards and Canada's merchant fleet."

Griffin's reference to the wage reduction concerned current negotiations between the union and the shipping Federation of Canada for a new wage contract. The federation is making a consultation board at Montreal to cut seamen's wages.

SPORT

By STAN MOHER, Editor

Department of Loud Boos

The customers write or 'no matter how you write it, you're never right' . . .

Maurice A. Duane takes up to the cleaners as follows: "Boy, have you ever got it in for any hockey club that doesn't have 'Flyers' tacked to it? I have always been of the opinion that a sports editor . . . should take a neutral attitude towards hockey clubs. . . I am enclosing a couple of clippings which I read a couple of hours before last Monday night's game. Say, how about changing the wording of your article because in case you don't know yet the Caps won that game 4-2. "Yes the inevitable Flyers got back. Too bad, isn't it? But I'm sure you will think of an excuse."

"Flyers are a grand team . . . play a grand game when they are on the losing end of a game, especially you are entitled to your criticism but not to be poor sports."

"Yours for . . . better sports reading material."

How's Regina's Housing Situation?

Then there's the case of H. T. H. He sees our rambling efforts like this . . .

"Say, if you have such a high regard for that Regina team why don't you go on home with them next time and take up residence in their town?"

"I can't see how anyone in his right mind could suggest, as you did after Flyers lost 4-2 last Monday, that Caps deserved their win. If those blasted referees would just make Gus Kyle play hockey instead of allowing him to run wild Flyers would have no trouble with Regina."

"Why knock the Flyers? After all you make your living in Edmonton, not Regina."

And this from Pat Freeman, a solid Keith Woodall fan . . .

"After seeing last night's game against Regina (if one could call it a hockey game) I thought, surely Moher will have some words of praise for Keith Woodall . . . and anxiously read your column to-night looking for some but to no avail."

"If ever anyone deserved a bouquet I am sure Woodall more than earned his last night. But you make no mention of his abilities."

Payday: First and 15th . . .

"It seems to me it is bad enough when supposedly 'Flyer' fans boo and jeer at their own goals for every move he makes . . . without the sports editor of 'Edmonton's Better Newspaper' doing likewise."

"As I am unable personally to tell those thousand odd fans what I think of their lack of good sportsmanship, you have been chosen to bear the brunt of my anger and disgust."

"Anyone who follows the game knows that Woodall has had the second least number of goals scored against him, never has had a large number of goals scored against him in one game, and, in my opinion, has never lost a game for the Flyers."

"I believe in constructive criticism, but I also believe that praise should be given where praise is due."

"Sure, Rollins was good, but so is Woodall."

"Say, 'Longtime' . . . Why all the crying over whether or not Keith Woodall gets paid or not? After all he must think himself pretty lucky to be with an Allan cup winning team. Also don't get that paycheque every two weeks, like the rest of the boys?"

"Let's be grown up about this thing."

Bouchard and Lach Get Doctor's Okay

MONTREAL, Jan. 20.—(CP)—Two of Montreal Canadiens' veteran stars, long on the hockey-cripple list, received the physicians' nod Friday to go back into action as soon as they attain playing condition.

For centre Elmer Lach and defenceman Maurice Lachy, the Canadiens' doctor, Dr. J. J. Gauthier, said the players' injuries were "minor" and that they could return to the ice in a matter of days.

WHOOOF OF EXCITEMENT

When the doctors' pronouncement was made known a whoop of excitement ran through the club of the Montreal Canadiens, who were playing the Canadiens at the Montreal Forum in the National Hockey League.

"I was glad to hear that," said Lach, who has been out of action since a fractured jaw fully mended by the Canadiens' doctor, Dr. J. J. Gauthier, said the players' injuries were "minor" and that they could return to the ice in a matter of days.

George Ross Defends Title

HALIFAX, Jan. 20.—(CP)—Belting George Ross of West Bay Road, N.S., retained his Canadian middleweight boxing crown Friday night by knocking out challenger Joe Pyle of West Waterford, N.S., at 2:15 in the third round of their scheduled 12-rounder.

Ross weighed 156 lbs., Pyle, 146 lbs. It was Ross' 10th professional fight without a defeat. Best any boxer has done against Ross since he turned pro was Pete Zdzick's draw at Gloucester, N.S., last fall.

For some 4,000 fans the knock-out came as a surprise and an anticlimax to what looked like a tight fight. Ross caught Pyle in the chest with a short, dynamite-like right uppercut. Pyle's legs buckled and he almost took Ross with him as he hit the deck in a sitting position. Pyle managed to get up after 10 seconds was called.

Gerald Dahms of Lunenburg, Nova Scotia, and finalist last year at Vancouver, and Ben Leavitt, southern Alberta fighter, also are in line for action.

Entries Pour In For Amateur Card

It looks like the Edmonton Amateur Boxing and Wrestling association will have quite a program lined up by the time the fighters step into the Stook Pavilion ring next Thursday.

With plans all but completed, association president Jim Cowan and secretary Red McNeill are enthusiastic about the prospects where their second show of the season is concerned.

They may have solved one of the main problems, finding a suitable opponent for high class Donald, with the signing of Bob Cowan, Regina, middleweight. His appearance is not yet definite, however.

ENTRIES POUR IN

Elsewhere, suitable competitors are not too hard to come by. The entries for the 10-hour card are coming in steadily.

Seven entries have been received from the Recreation Boxing club and other clubs are expected to get their names in before the entries close Saturday.

Five pool-of-draws boxes have signed their intention of being included in the card.

CALCANY CONTINGENT

Don Potter, lightweight; George Hanon, welterweight; and Bob Rogers, middleweight, are in from Calgary. Potter and Hanon have been provincial finalists in their divisions for the last three years while Rogers is a promising novice.

Gerald Dahms of Lunenburg, Nova Scotia, and finalist last year at Vancouver, and Ben Leavitt, southern Alberta fighter, also are in line for action.

Congrave Powers Cal's Triumph

Thirteen-year-old George Congrave was really flying for Cal's Canadian Friday night in a Canadian Amateur Hockey league action.

The youthful star all over the ice and to such effect that he wound up with five goals as his club routed North 15-1. Gerard Leonard came up with a pair of goals while Bill Hobbing, Dan McDonald, Bernie Sailing and Ron Funnell banged home the others. James tallied the lone Ritchie goal.

Confucius is believed to have been in Cal's 15-1 B.C. win, and to have dived in at 15-1 B.C.

SCHAFERS COPS NOD OVER BILL SMITH

Charlie Schafers thrilled 200 hometown fans at Morinville Friday night by punching out an eight-round decision over Bill Smith, Edmonton, in the main event of George Bugis's boxing card.

Most Home for Least Cash Biggest Building Problem

How to get the most house for the least money continues the number one problem of today's home builder.

Fortunately, the average owner who realizes the folly of cutting corners through the use of inferior materials and equipment and looks instead to the economy of more efficient planning for his dollar conservation program.

OVERALL SHAPE
One of the greatest single factors affecting the cost of a house is its overall shape.

It can be readily seen that the cost of framing and enclosing the outside wall and roof area is greatly increased through needless little projections, corners, recesses and angles added to the interior just for appearance's sake.

They add pleasure to your cost in foundations, plastering, roofing, framing, etc.—yet may provide no added square foot of living space.

The most economical shaped house is the square, providing the maximum amount of floor area with the least amount of wall area.

tendency to reduce the size of certain rooms to a point where the purpose for which they are provided is impaired. While you don't want to buy a lot of needless cubage, it's no use settling for rooms of a size you'll always be dissatisfied with. One of the best ways to save money under present building conditions is to plan and build what is immediately needed and making provisions for future expansion. Normally, of course, it is economical to build and finish the entire house at one time. However, under present conditions, and particularly if you simply haven't the necessary capital to complete your home, an expandable plan should be striven for.

Remember, now is the time, when your new home is still on paper, to figure out where those later additions go or to avoid the unnecessary corners, recesses and meaningless little projections. The superstition that a broken mirror brings bad luck came from the fact that a shadow or reflection once was considered part of the soul.

The inventory house will add considerably cost more for stairs and additional height of walls, still these are not sufficient to offset the other savings.

ROOM SIZE IMPORTANT
In your efforts to reduce cost guard against the too common tendency to reduce the size of certain rooms to a point where the purpose for which they are provided is impaired.

on the TOWN

By J. D.

I was feeling pretty good Friday up to the moment I ran into the office grouse in the coffee shop.

Now if you know our office grouse you'll wonder how there could be other gloomy people in the world. You'd swear he holds a monopoly on gloom.

Take for instance, his first words to me in the coffee shop: "It won't be long now before we have to file our income tax returns for 1948."

Of course I fled from the gloomy presence but my day was ruined.

His observation about income tax deadline drawing near started me thinking about this universally disagreeable subject. I recalled the story told me recently by a CNA locomotive engineer who runs out of Edmonton.

A widower with a grown-up family, he undergoes the full treatment from the income tax department each year. For purposes of taxation he's treated as a single man without dependents.

But he's also the kind of man Old Diogenes would find. He holds his cheque to Doug Abbott every spring for the full amount due, promptly and with a smile toward him in the income tax department.

It was only natural then, that my railroader friend should feel a grudge toward him. He recalls his cheque to Doug Abbott every spring for the full amount due, promptly and with a smile toward him in the income tax department.

At the bottom of the letter was typed: "See details on the other side."

My friend turned over the page, fully expecting to read a thorough explanation. What he saw made him hit the roof and didn't blame him either.

Seated in a hand that only bureaucracy can produce were just three words: "Error in computation."

My engineer friend counted up his all denoting total earnings, together with respect for the tax he had paid the previous spring, and took them to the railway pay office. A clerk checked back and found that an error had been made in totaling the engineer's earnings to the extent of a couple of hundred dollars.

No another cheque went promptly to Ottawa for the $45.50. Try and imagine if you can, how the railroader felt a week or so later when he received another note from Ottawa billing him with penalties for late filing of returns.

Personally I've found Gordon Northfield and other officials in the Edmonton income tax office real decent to deal with. (Are you listening Gordon?)

They have a mighty tough job. A truly repentant dinner-drivers can usually get off our eyes if he honestly tries to do his level best.

But a case like that of our engineer friend strikes me as being just a trifle too peremptory, to put it mildly.

Sure with the office grouse would keep out of my way.

Group Repudiates Council For Unity

Another name has been added to the long list of those who repudiate any connection with the Edmonton Council for Canadian Unity.

The council's letterhead, containing the names of a number of civic organizations was found to be a misrepresentation in that many of them had nothing to do with the council.

Among the names was that of the Edmonton Bahai Assembly. Officials of the Bahai are anxious to correct any impression the group is connected with the unity council.

"We are a strictly religious group and have nothing to do with politics or economics," it was explained by a spokesman.

MODERN AESOP'S FABLE

OIL ROYALTIES notwithstanding, everyday work around the farm has to continue and no one knows it better than farmer John Rebus who continues to do his everyday chores through exploration, drilling and wild rampages of Alberta's most famous well, Atlantic 3. So Bulletin cameraman Eric Bland dropped in on farmer Rebus recently and found him carrying on, oblivious to the forest of oil tanks which now surrounds his farm.

Early Start on Robertson Memorial Hall Planned

Construction on the Robertson Memorial Hall will begin in the near future, it was decided unanimously at the annual meeting of Robertson United Church Friday night.

Property north of the church will be used for the hall, and architecture will conform with that of the present church building.

Class and meeting rooms, auditorium and chapel will be included in the plan, and it was hoped that work could begin by early May.

Estimated cost is $100,000. Thornton Graham spoke briefly and called upon the congregation for financial assistance.

J. Logan Sutherland presided at the meeting, with P. L. Dallan secretary.

GROWTH REPORTED
Members found the record of achievement gratifying, as reports were read on activities of all church groups in 1948.

There was an increase of 300 persons in communicant membership, a larger support for the outgoing work of the Missionary and Maintenance Fund and a growth in the enrollment of Sunday school and boys' groups. Contributions toward the church totaled $2,597 and 1,390 pounds of clothing as well as over $500 to the Veterans of the Cross Appeal.

Membership of the church at December 31 was 1,048, an increase of 208 over the previous year. Total receipts for 1948 were $25,000, of which $10,500 was for missionary purposes.

Budget Out By $14,086

Edmonton's Royal Alexandra Hospital was $14,086 short of meeting its 1948 budget after receiving grants and appropriations from the city amounting to $13,160.

Financial position of the hospital was revealed in a statement presented at the annual meeting of the Hospital Board by secretary-treasurer Murray Ross Friday evening in the Nurses Residence.

CASH OPERATIONS
Expenditures of the hospital for the year totalled $1,250,985.03 and cash income collected totalled $1,012,380.00, resulting in a total cash deficit of $14,086.03 exclusive of grants and appropriations from the city.

Total net revenue for the hospital during the year, according to the financial statement, was $1,092,185.55, leaving an estimated deficit of $164,420.88.

Daily cost per adult patient during 1948 was $32 as compared to $30 in 1947, the treasurer's report revealed.

In comparison, total expenditure for 1947 was $997,560.40 and total revenue was $881,513.84, resulting in an earned deficit for that year of $115,046.56.

A loss of $10,000 was suffered by the hospital in 1948, attributable to the Provincial government, Treasurer Murray Ross told the board.

These accounts are principally for the treatment of maternity and puerperal patients, for which the allowance made by the Provincial government covers only 82 per cent of the cost of treatment received.

Lyburn Resigns Beulah Home Board

Resignation of J. F. Lyburn, a member of the board of the Beulah Home was accepted with regret at a recent meeting of the home's board of directors.

Mr. Lyburn was an active member of the board for 30 years, and was chairman for 15 years. He is succeeded by H. H. Sterne.

Shopbreaking Puzzle Solved

Smart work on the part of Detective James McMurtry Friday resulted in the solving of a puzzling shopbreaking and the arrest of a juvenile who is charged with at least two other crimes.

The 17-year-old youth was apprehended Friday afternoon for shoplifting. Detective McMurtry noted that the unusual footwear of the lad corresponded to tracks left by the juvenile's Druggists, 1279 Fort Road.

Store was entered sometime during the night of Jan. 27 and 28, and a large quantity of goods stolen, although an unlocked cash register was not touched.

When police searched the vicinity of the drug store most of the night, they discovered a number of matches, lighters, cameras, cigarettes, cigars, lipstick and fountain pens.

Entry was gained by placing a ladder against the rear wall and breaking a skylight in the roof. The juvenile reportedly confessed to breaking and entering the Farmers' Supply, across the street from the drug store. No loss was reported.

Recommendation Made At Annual Meeting

A major building program providing additional accommodation for Edmonton's Royal Alexandra Hospital was recommended at a meeting of the hospital board Friday night.

Recommendation was made by board chairman Vernon Pearson in his report to the annual meeting of the hospital's board of directors.

Mr. Pearson said the present building facilities of the hospital were at least seven years behind requirements without taking into consideration the potential growth of the city which, it is believed, will reach 200,000 by 1960.

HANDICAPPED NOW
Born at the present time, he added, the pathological, maternity and nursing departments of the hospital are handicapped by space limitations.

The building and extension program of the last three years, he said, the board chairman stated, while it has afforded some satisfaction, has not relieved pressure due to the growth of the city and the development of medical science.

All temporary measures for the relief of space requirements have been exhausted and only a construction program of major proportions will solve the problem, Mr. Pearson said.

RE-ELECTED CHAIRMAN
Mr. Pearson was re-elected as chairman of the board for his third term. Alderman Sydney Parsons was elected vice-chairman and Dr. Alfred Zarnin, vice president.

Five retiring members of the board, Dr. P. H. Spence, Mrs. L. A. MacNeil, Mrs. C. E. McManis, S. W. Field, K. C. and Dr. Irving Bell were returned for a further three-year term.

Annual report of the superintendent, Dr. H. H. Keston on the conduct of the hospital during 1948 was received by the board as was that of Miss M. S. Fraser, R.N., superintendent of nurses and H. H. Hubers, mechanical superintendent.

Liberal Meetings
Liberals in the Vegreville constituency at Vegreville and Edmonton met this week to hear candidate John Devere, Vegreville barrister, and for committee organization.

At the Vegreville meeting, J. W. Simanough, president of the Alberta Liberal Association and A. Dubinsky, Edmonton barrister, were present.

Television Is Believed Major Item for Probe

Canada's radio, film, video (or rather the lack of it) are to be the subject of an investigation at the highest levels.

At least that is the suggestion of one of the paragraphs contained in the Speech from the Throne presented to the nation's parliament earlier this week.

ELABORATION LACKING

Briefly the single paragraph stated that a royal commission will be appointed to examine the operations of government agencies relating to radio, film, video, and television, arts and sciences, research and their activities.

WOMEN of TODAY

Dolores Kimball, Editor

Five lovely co-eds will remember tonight for a long, long time.

One of them will be crowned Engineers' Queen at the annual ball, sponsored by the Engineering Student Society of the University of Alberta, to be held in the varsity drill hall tonight.

The five candidates, each backed by a faction of engineers, have been the centre of attention on the Alberta campus for some time.

Jeanne Rogers, brown-eyed lovely miss, will appear at the ball in a lush turquoise brocade gown, fashioned with a snug bodice, low rounded neckline and a generously full skirt. Jeanne is a coloratura soprano and is most interested in music. But she manages to find time to be enthusiastic about swimming, riding and skating.

Stella Hanna, dimpled brownette, will be sweet and lovely in a doriset green corded silk gown styled with a dropped shoulder-line, voluminous skirt and molded bodice. A talented pianist, Stella also finds time away from her first year nursing studies to play basketball, swim, ride and ski.

Donna Morris, blue-eyed beauty, will attract favorable attention in her strapless white moire gown at the ball tonight. The gown, styled on princess lines, will enhance Donna's charm.

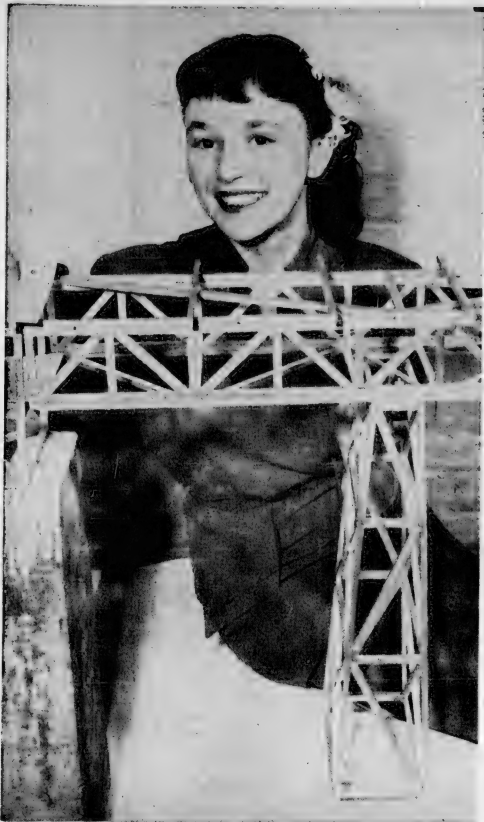

Irene Glen will be the pride of the fourth year civil engineers when she makes an entrance at the ball in her pretty gown. Pink eyelet off-the-shoulder bodice will be complemented by a taffeta skirt in a blending pastel shade. Irene is an all-round sports-woman, excellent in swimming.

Mary Lou Lister, another brownette, will be greeted by wolf-calls from the engineers when she arrives at the ball in her ice-green brocade gown. The gown is fashioned with an off-the-shoulder line and the full skirt is made fashion-perfect with panniers. Mary Lou likes drama and literature but rounds out her talents with a neat smattering of athletic activity.

DREAM BRIDGE—DREAM GIRL

BRIDGE-BUILDING would be a lot more fun if someone as pretty as Stella Hanna directed activities. Third year civil engineering students are backing Stella who is a first year nursing student at the university herself. This miniature high level bridge will be shown at the ball tonight.

A GOLD NUGGET FOR THE MINERS

ANY DEEP DARK OLD MINE would be brightened more than somewhat by a sweet 'n' lovely like Jeanne Rogers, candidate for title of Engineers' Queen. Jeanne, choice of the third and fourth year mining engineering students, is a freshman at the University of Alberta, studying fine arts.

SPARKS FLY FOR THIS POTENTIAL QUEEN

BACKGROUND OF MACHINERY takes nothing away from the feminine charm of Mary Lou Lister, whose road to royalty is paved by the third and fourth year electrical engineering students. Mary Lou is taking arts at the university and plans a journalistic career. Already a queen to her, our right, Mary Lou was chosen Alberta Teen Queen in 1937.

PRETTY BRUNETTE STUDENT

SENIOR CIVIL ENGINEERING students are placing their bets on Irene Glen for top honors in their faculty campaign. The formal ball, to be held tonight in the varsity drill hall, is an annual event which may be remembered by Irene, third year science student, for the rest of her days.

NICE COMPOUND THIS . . .

FORMULA FOR A PRETTY FACE has been perfected by Donna Morris, queen candidate, sponsored by third and fourth year chemical engineers. A freshman in modern language, Donna also excels at fancy skating and is performing in the Glenora Ice Show.

Ukrainian Artistry Convention Display

Beautiful Handwork Brought By DP's From Each Ukraine Sector

Brilliantly colored handworked articles, typical of every province of the Ukraine, were featured in a display as the first annual convention of the Ukrainian Catholic Women's League got underway Friday evening at the National Hall.

Officiating at the opening were Hon. James Macgillivray and Mayor Harry D. Ainlay. Other special guests included His Excellency Bishop Neil Sawatzky of the western diocese, Mrs. L. Walls, the national president of the Ukrainian Catholic Women's League, and Mrs. J. Pryma, western president.

Beautiful examples of Ukrainian artistry were made in Europe and brought to Canada by Ukrainian displaced persons. Mrs. M. H. Hovell was in charge of the display.

Articles were arranged according to different provinces of the Ukraine, and differences in color, workmanship and design were striking. Colors varied from blue, orange and red typical of Ukraine, to multicolored patterns of the Transcarpathians, and soft, blended shades of the Lowlands.

One highlight of the display was a holy picture done in oils. Dating from 880, it was brought to the Ukraine when the Christian religion was introduced into that country. As is traditional it was displayed hanging against a Kalmuk, or handwoven rug, with a white embroidered cloth draped over it.

Traditional arts of embroidery and wood inlay were represented as well. The embroidery was intricate and colorful, with colorful embroidery on silk handkerchiefs, and the making of men's shirts, girls' blouses, and women's skirts, pillow covers.

Handkerchiefs, silk, linen, pillow covers, and many other articles were displayed in every color of the rainbow was a highlight of the display. A collection of colorful embroidery on silk handkerchiefs, and the making of men's shirts, girls' blouses, and women's skirts, pillow covers.

Secret of the Ukrainian artistry is that each worker designs his own. This particular style of display will continue through Saturday and Sunday, and some of the articles are offered for sale, while orders will be taken for others.

CONCERT STAGE was the first love of Mrs. Don Ferris, the former Isabel Mutch. She hopes to return to it some day. Now living in St. John, Mrs. Ferris was born in Saskatchewan and has studied in Europe.

Concert Singer Makes Edmonton Her New Home

By Frances Geddes

Once a concert singer, it's not easy to forget the stage. For Mrs. Don Ferris of Edmonton, the former Isabel Mutch, life is an impossibility. A concert stage for so many years back, she's going back to her music some day.

That some day depends on many things. Right now, she's a housewife and mother. Her work, however, not quite two, is lively enough to take up lots of time.

From then on her journey read like a daydream. In St. John, she had a chance to study singing. In St. John, she had a chance to study singing. In St. John, she had a chance to study singing.

Planning Needed To Guard Health Eating, Sleeping And Living Habits Must Be Watched

By Dr. G. M. Little

City Medical Officer of Health

We hope that National Health Week will remind citizens that good health is not something to take for granted until we are threatened with loss.

Safeguarding health demands a little day to day thought regarding our eating, sleeping and living habits, and it requires planning.

It is just as easy, and much more economical, to cultivate living habits which safeguard health, rather than those which lower our resistance to disease.

It is more sensible to take those tried and proven protective measures now, than to risk the sorrow and regret which so frequently beset following their neglect.

PROTECT CHILDREN
So it is that we ask you to pause for a few well spent moments and ponder the health of yourself and your family.

Have your children been protected against those vicious communicable diseases diphtheria, smallpox and whooping cough—for which we have such protection, and which is available to you for the asking.

In the diet for the younger members of the family arranged to include those foods we know to be good body builders. The best foods are by no means the most costly. Indeed, they are the cheapest in the long run, whatever the immediate cost. This information is also freely available.

Have your pre-school children been checked periodically by your family physician, or by our Child Welfare Clinic, so that you know without guesswork that they are developing normally, and so that no insidiously growing defect can reach the stage where permanent physical harm is done? Have you carefully studied any physical report they have brought home from the school medical service, and taken such corrective measures as are indicated?

IN PARENTS' HANDS
The future health and happiness of our children rest, to a great extent, in our hands. If we neglect these things we fall them badly, for some of them will carry a reminder of that neglect for their lifetime.

To the adult citizen a few moments of "clock-taking" is also valuable.

We are "made of what we eat" so your own diet one which will maintain that feeling of well-being. Have you a copy of that simple, brief, but exceedingly important little document "Canada's Food Rules"? If not, we have one for you.

That persistent indigestion, or bump, or pain, or cough—do you neglect it until serious damage is established, or do you go to your family doctor promptly and ask him what is it all about? You'll live longer if you call on him occasionally for an assessment of your well-being survey.

CHECK-UPS PAY OFF
One large life insurance company reports that their policy holders who avail themselves of an annual physical check-up averaged seven years more of life than the group who failed to grasp this opportunity. Seven years of life in return for an hour each year spent with your doctor seems a fair investment.

Further, try to "be your age". That body at 50 years has not the resilience and recuperative powers he had at 25. Give it a chance. Remember that excess of any kind

Third Try Made To Reach Village
VANCOUVER, Jan. 25.—(C.P.)—The coastwise passenger-freighter SS Canscon last night sailed on its third attempt to reach Stewart, B.C., the tiny snow-bound and fuel-short community at the southern tip of the Alaska Peninsula.

Nineteen feet of snow and the ice locked Portland Canal have prevented the Union Steamship "Canscon" from reaching Stewart on two previous runs. The community three days ago said its food supplies were ample but that fuel was running low.

FASTEST PLANE SHOWN HERE: HEADING NORTH

Rated in official speed tests as the world's fastest aircraft, and scheduled to go into production for the RCAF in April, the North American P-51 jet fighter was shown at Edmonton for the first time Friday.

The initial single-engine, turbo-prop fighter brought here from Great Falls, Minnesota, by Lt. Henry J. Pashco, USAF, Lt. Pashco will continue northward with the craft through cold-weather tests.

The 400-mile flight from the Montana air base was made in comparatively slow time for the ship, however, which has a clocked rating of 670 MPH. Lt. Pashco bucked a 75-mile headwind all the way to bring it into Edmonton one hour and 25 minutes after take-off.

'Smallpox' Case Is False Alarm
There was a happy ending to a report of a smallpox case received by provincial health authorities this week.

It wasn't smallpox at all. Dr. J. A. Gillett, provincial director of communicable diseases was glad to report today.

He said he had hastened to conduct an investigation into the report, which hasn't been a case of smallpox in the province for some years.

He found the patient suffering from chickenpox, which is sometimes severe in its effect on adults.

is an enemy of good health at every age, but particularly so in middle and later life.

If you will spend a half hour of thought on this problem of good health, answer these questions to yourself, and apply your own intelligent judgment to those answers, then I know that a healthier and happier future is assured to many children and adults in our community.
